ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Circuit Judge.

We are authorized to announce W. T. OWEN, of Daviess county, as a candidate for Circuit Judge in the Sixth Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Those who have observed Mark Hanna's character closely will take him seriously when he says he does not want the nomination for the Presidency, but as we see it, death only can cheat the Republican party of his nomination in 1904.

HON. R. W. SLACK, of Owensboro, is in town on legal business. The Republicans of the 2nd district are urging Mr. Slack to make the race for congress, and if he decides to do so, the Hon. A. O. Stanley will express his regrets about November 5.

ATTORNEYS J. S. R. WEDDING, C. M. BARNETT and M. L. HEAVIN will go before Judge O'Rear at Frankfort Tuesday and ask that the injunction, restraining the Democratic Committee of the Sixth Judicial District, from holding a primary election on November 4, a regular election day, dissolved by special Judge Helm in Circuit Court here, be reinstated.

AGAIN we assure the Hartford Herald that we feel no very great interest in the Democratic contest for the nomination for Circuit Judge. We just happened to make the passing remark that some of the Democrats were saying they did not think Mr. Birkhead's legal ability measured up to the standard required for a Circuit Judge. Really we don't know the measure of Mr. Birkhead's legal ability except from what the lawyers say of it. Personally we regard Mr. Birkhead a very nice gentleman, but we have heard Democratic lawyers of both Hartford and Owensboro, say, referring to his legal ability, that his election would be a public misfortune. But as the Democratic party will be responsible for the conduct of their judge, if they elect one, we are willing for them to have whom they will.

Col. Henry Watterson is the most unsearchable, unknowable, unfathomable and mysterious character in Kentucky politics. He withdraws, or rather declines to make the race for Governor in the following interesting discussion on practical politics:

"I am not for me. Brought to the point where I must look the situation full in the eye I am appalled by the conditions which the successful candidate for office must needs meet and overcome: the rogues and cheats he must court, or cozen; the servility he must affect, the obligations incur; the personal solicitation, ignominy and humbling; the use of money more or less corrupt and corrupting; for, though he have an overwhelming majority at his back, there stands the machine, first to be captured and then to be deployed, with all that this implies."

That he can thus lash his slaves and still receive their homage proves him a master in his field. The average Democratic leader could not use the rod and live; Mr. Watterson uses it and leads.

THE GOVERNOR MUST APPOINT

For a hundred years when a Circuit Judge, for any reason, vacated the bench, the local bar elected a special judge to preside over the court. The late legislature took this power from the local attorneys, who should, and do know best, the fitness of their own members for this position, and put it in the hands of the Governor.

All legislation under our form of popular government is supposed to be done at the demand of the constituents of the legislators. But here was a statute enacted for which the people had not asked, and of which the masses, as yet, do not know. No bar in the State had petitioned for its enactment. Then it will no doubt interest our readers to know why the law was passed.

The people will not have forgotten that while Mr. Bradley was Governor a Democratic legislature took from the Governor the power to appoint certain officials and placed it in the hands of commissions selected by the legislature, the sole purpose of which was to place Democrats in office, a species of legislation that brings representative government into popular contempt.

The enactment of the recent statute referred to, is even more execrable. It was enacted to remedy no evil complained of by the bar or the people, nor was it enacted with any definite reference to the courts of the various districts of the State, but it was enacted to prevent the bar of a single county from selecting a special judge to preside over the trials of two men whom the Democrats seek to hang because they had the courage to deny the right of Beckham's crowd to steal the State offices to which Republicans had been elected.

Judge Cantrill has been selected as the tyrannical instrument to make the stealing of the State offices respectable by hanging Caleb Powers and Jim Howard. But it became apparent at the trials of these men was so flagrant a violation of the law that the Court of Appeals would be compelled to force him to do so. The Georgetown bar is Democratic, but they have a higher conception of the administration of justice than the hounding persecutors of Powers and Howard, and it was to prevent this bar electing a special judge who would preside at these trials with dignity and fairness that the law was passed.

Beckham is a candidate for re-election. His party has not denied that he occupies an office to which W. S. Taylor was elected, but justify the theft by the charge that Powers and Howard killed Goebel.

They know that the Court of Appeals will not allow these men punished on a conviction secured without testimony, but they hope to continue to secure convictions until after the State election next year.

By transferring the power to appoint a special judge to preside at these trials to a Governor whose sole claim to his office depends upon the conviction of these men, the Democratic leaders can safely depend upon his appointing a special judge who will out-Cantrill Cantrill, if such a thing be possible, in administering injustice to Powers and Howard.

If we do not mistake the sense of justice of the people of Kentucky, the 40,000 majority of a few years ago will continue to diminish in response to such legislative outrages until justice may again be had in the courts of the Commonwealth.

Fordsville awoke last Friday Morning to find herself the center of a $28,000 sensation, the account of which has been very minutely given in many of our papers. Never before has our little town been filled with so much excitement, people thronged in night and day until the prisoners were taken to the jail at Hartford Monday afternoon. A special train came in over the I. C. railroad Sunday afternoon bringing several prominent men to investigate the supposed robbery. Among them were, Supt. F. D. Adams, of the American Express Company, from St. Louis; J. W. Hartsborn, of Chicago, chief of the secret service of the company, and J. H. Schumacher, a Pinkerton detective.

Mr. Harry Taylor, of Hartford, was in town Monday engaged by the prosecution in the case of Schlitzbaum and Boatner, charged with embezzlement of $28,000.

Mr. H. L. Wallace, of Deaneville, was in town as a witness at the examining trial of Schlitzbaum and Boatner Monday.

BOLD ATTEMPT

To Rob the American Express Company of $28,000.

J. W. Boatner and A. B. Schlitzbaum Held to Answer for the Attempted Robbery.

J. W. Boatner and A. B. Schlitzbaum are in jail here charged with attempting to rob the American Express Company of $28,000 at Fordsville Friday night.

Boatner and Schlitzbaum were given an examining trial before Esquire T. A. Evans, at Fordsville, Monday and held in the sum of $3,000 each which they were unable to give, to await the action of the grand jury to answer to the charge of attempting to defraud the American Express Company.

Boatner claims to hail from California and says he is a gambler and a follower of the races. He says that his father is a fugitive from justice and lives in a California town, but refuses to name the town. He says his father gave him $28,000 and told him not to put it in a bank but to carry it on his person.

Schlitzbaum was a depot agent at Fordsville.

Thursday afternoon Boatner approached the express agent at Deaneville and wanted to express $28,000 to Fordsville. The agent told Boatner that the rules of the company would not allow him to receive a package for transmission, the value of which exceeded $5,000. Boatner left at once for Owensboro, and Friday morning expressed from that city to Fordsville the package which he claimed contained $28,000 and telephoned the agent at Fordsville not to put the money in bank as he would be at Fordsville on 7 p. m. train to take charge of it.

Boatner arrived at Fordsville on the 7 o'clock p. m. train Friday, but did not call on the agent for the package, but went immediately to the Howard House.

About 8 o'clock Schlitzbaum called for Boatner at the Howard House and the two walked down the street some distance and were in consultation about fifteen minutes. Boatner returned to the Howard House and Schlitzbaum to the depot.

When Schlitzbaum got to the depot a boy was waiting for him with a call to the Harrison exchange. Schlitzbaum started to the exchange and, according to his story, when in the rear of Wilson & Shrewsbury's store a masked man tapped him on the shoulder and with a drawn revolver ordered him to hold up his hands and say nothing. According to Schlitzbaum's story a second party appeared upon the scene and the two robbed him of the package containing the $28,000. After relieving him of the express package they told him they did not want to hurt him but to keep his mouth closed and go with them.

Schlitzbaum says they went up the "Texas" road about a mile to the water tank where the robbers halted to divide the proceeds of the robbery. He says the larger of the two men took from his pocket a small lamp lighted it, and proceeded to open the package and divided the contents. He says he saw the entire $28,000 counted bill by bill and that the money was in bills of large denominations.

Schlitzbaum says the robbers while counting the money talked freely with him in regard to their motives for the robbery. They said Boatner, several months ago, robbed their father of $30,000 and that they had followed him from city to city and from village to village awaiting an opportunity to recover the money that rightfully belonged to their father, and that this was the first chance they had had to recover it.

Schlitzbaum says when they reached a point about ten miles from Fordsville the robbers told him they were going to do him. That the dope was harmless except to produce a few hours sleep, and that he could take the dope and sleep a few hours while they escaped, or could take a heavier diet and sleep through all eternity. He says he decided to take the former and took a couple of swallows of a very nasty tasting fluid and soon fell asleep. When he awoke he found it difficult to collect his senses and wondered where he was and what had happened. When he had gotten his mental bearings he telephoned parties at Fordsville of his whereabouts and experience of the night before.

Marshal S. O. Keown and Deputy Sheriff Jo Roberts left Fordsville early Saturday morning in search of Schlitzbaum, whom public sentiment had implicated in the reputed robbery, and found him at Falls of Rough. Schlitzbaum was arrested there and brought back to Fordsville.

The officials at Fordsville at once suspected Boatner and Schlitzbaum of attempting to rob the American Express Company.

Boatner left Fordsville on 4:30 Texas train Saturday for Louisville, and Marshal Keown telephoned the Marshal of Irvington to arrest Boatner upon his arrival there which was done.

When Marshal Keown took charge of Boatner at Irvington the prisoner appeared very unconcerned about the matter, remarking the American Ex

MALARIA An Invisible Enemy to Health

Means bad air, and whether it comes from the low lands and marshes of the country, or the filthy sewers and drain pipes of the cities and towns, its effect upon the human system is the same.

These atmospheric poisons are breathed into the lungs and taken up by the blood, and the foundation of some long, debilitating illness is laid. Chills and fever, chronic dyspepsia, torpid and enlarged liver, kidney troubles, jaundice and biliousness are frequently due to that invisible foe, Malaria. Noxious gases and unhealthy matter collect in the system because the liver and kidneys fail to act, and are poured into the blood current until it becomes so polluted and sluggish that the poisons literally break through the skin, and carbuncles, boils, abscesses, ulcers and various eruptions of an indolent character appear, depleting the system, and threatening life itself.

The germs and poisons that so oppress and weaken the body and destroy the life-giving properties of the blood, rendering it thin and watery, must be overcome and carried out of the system before the patient can hope to get rid of Malaria and its effects.

S. S. S. does this and quickly produces an entire change in the blood, reaching every organ and stimulating them to vigorous, healthy action. S. S. S. possesses not only purifying but tonic properties, and the general health improves, and the appetite increases almost from the first dose. There is no Mercury, Potash, Arsenic or other mineral in S. S. S. It is strictly and entirely a vegetable remedy.

Write us about your case, and our physicians will gladly help you by their advice to regain your health. Book on blood and skin diseases sent free.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

press company had $28,000 of his money and he guessed he would get it when he called for it.

Boatner was brought back to Fordsville, and he and Schlitzbaum were kept under guard until Monday when they were brought before Esquire T. A. Evans, at Fordsville, for examining trial. The trial of Boatner and Schlitzbaum before Esquire Evans Monday attracted the largest crowd that ever attended a court trial at Fordsville. Fully one thousand out of town people were in town when the cases were called for trial. The evidence developed the facts, chiefly, as stated above. Boatner had been stopping at Deaneville about two weeks. He claimed to be wanting to buy mineral lands but no evidence was offered to prove that he had offered to buy or even looked over lands of any kind.

While at Deaneville Boatner had several letters and at least one visit from Schlitzbaum, the Agent at Fordsville. Nothing is known of Boatner's past history until he came to Owensboro and registered at the Roby Hotel about three weeks ago.

Schlitzbaum had been until recently depot agent at Dawson, Ky., and had been at Fordsville only about three weeks. He is reported to have made several profits to exchange places with the railroad agent at Deaneville, and to have offered him $25,000 for the exchange.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a regular meeting of Rough River Lodge No. 110 Knights of Pythias held in Castle Hall at Hartford, Ky. on Tuesday evening August 12th 1902 the following resolutions were offered and by the Lodge unanimously adopted, to-wit:

WHEREAS, The members of this lodge have learned with regret that the Angel of Death has come to the home of a brother Knight and our beloved townsman, T. Larkin Griffin, the father of our brother, Z. Wayne Griffin, has been called from the activities of life to that sleep which awaits us each at the end of this little journey, therefore, be it now, by Lodge, Resolved:

1st. That we, the officers and members of Rough River Lodge Knights of Pythias, tender to our dear brother, Wayne Griffin, the tenderest sympathy of his brother Knights; that our hearts are bowed with his untimely departure from the weight of this terrible bereavement, and to him and his family each member of this lodge asks to be allowed to extend now a hand of helpfulness and sympathy of love, and to point out through the gloom of sorrow's night the stars that shine beyond.

Second, We commend to our brother as worthy of his imitation the knightly character of the father who has gone before. He was punctiliously honest and proudly honorable; he was kindly as the tenderest woman and he was noble and pure as the knightliest man. In his business relations he was always enterprising and successful and his long business career was one of integrity. As a citizen he was progressive and public spirited always responding to every call for the betterment of his fellows and giving helpful encouragement to every worthy institution.

He was a loving and devoted husband and father and the truest and bravest and strongest of friends, a christian gentleman, a kindly, manly man. He loved mankind and made the world brighter and better for his having lived. We declare our unflinching faith that the Supreme Ruler of the universe who doth all things well, and to the consoling of his promise and His love we commend our dear brother. May these knightly virtues be tendered to our bereaved family, and that they be spread at large upon the records of this Lodge.

Mr. Hanna as the Pacifier.

Glancing over the press of the country a remarkable change can be seen in the public estimate of Senator Mark A. Hanna over that of five years ago. The man who, at the outset of the Presidential campaign of 1896, was reviled as the incarnation of that spirit supposed to be abroad in the land for the purpose of grinding down and pauperizing the workingmen for the benefit of a few rich men, is now devoting the closing of his life to an honorable effort to bring together the forces of labor and capital.

DESPERATE DEEDS

Planned and Partially Executed by Prisoners in the County Jail.

Bars of the Outer Wall Cut, and Inner Door Almost Cut From Hinges

A Deed More Desperate Than Jail Breaking Contemplated.

By exercising that diligence and caution that has made him one of the best jailers ever elected by the voters of Ohio county, Jailer Black discovered Saturday morning, that desperate deeds had been planned and attempts made to execute them by the prisoners confined in the north division of the county jail.

Jailer Black had heard an unusual lot of singing, whistling, etc., among the jail birds Friday night, and suspecting that something was wrong, went up in the cell rooms Saturday morning and made a close inspection of the condition of the cell walls.

On the west side of the north cell, near the floor, a number of the iron bars had been sawed in two.

Jailer Black questioned the prisoners closely, but each claimed to know nothing about the matter.

Later in the day Jailer Black discovered that the hinges of the door leading from the north to the south cell division were practically cut off. To have this incident understood, we should explain that a woman was the sole occupant of the south cell division, and it was to reach this division that the attempt was made to cut away the division door. The woman was in no way responsible for the attempt to cut down the door between the cells, and does not yet, perhaps, know the foul designs of the criminal who attempted to commit the act.

A diligent search was made for the tools with which the bars were cut, but they have not been found. Blacksmiths were called in and the holes cut by the prisoners patched.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple will leave for an extended trip through the North, after which they will go to Princeton, N. J., to make their future home. Prof. Foster was born and reared in Ohio county, and is a young man that the county feels justly proud. The best wishes of Ohio county people are with the young couple.

Expensive Lawsuit

The past week in circuit court was devoted almost entirely to the trial of one case, Dan T. Wilson vs. K. C. Byers, in which is involved a tract of land worth about $300.

This case was called Friday Morning and disposed of yesterday. The plaintiff was on the witness stand nearly two days and the examination of the defendant consumed nearly as much time. More than forty witnesses appeared and most of them testified. The jury was out sixteen hours but failed to agree, standing six to six. The costs in the case including attorney fees will amount to more than a thousand dollars. Heavily and Woodward for the plaintiff and Glenn and Ringo for the defendant.

Fall Festival, Cincinnati, Ohio, September 15-27, 1902. On account of above occasions, round trip tickets will be sold at rate of one fare for round trip, $6.65, from Beaver Dam to Cincinnati and return. Tickets on sale September 14 and 15, limited to September 27, for return.

AFTER EIGHTEEN YEARS

Mrs. Mollie Wedding Returns and Puts Flowers Upon Husband's Grave.

People familiar with the circumstances were touched with tender sentiments to see Mrs. Mollie Wedding placing flowers on her husband's grave at the Midkiff burying ground, near Sulphur Springs, Wednesday. Eighteen years ago Mrs. Wedding, who was then the wife of Mr. Andrew J. Wedding, had an attack of spinal trouble which resulted in insanity. She wandered from home, near Sulphur Springs, one night after her husband had retired and was found asleep next morning at Mr. John Taylor's gate about four miles north of Hartford. A few days later she was adjudged a lunatic and sent to the asylum at Hopkinsville. There her physical health improved but her mental condition remained unchanged until about three years ago. In the meantime, about ten years ago, her husband died, but her mental condition was such that no information of his death was conveyed to her.

About 3 years ago, and almost in a day, her mind came back to her and her thoughts turned at once to home, and, all unconscious of the fact that her husband was long since sleeping with the quiet dead, wrote him a letter. She told him of her improved condition, how anxious she was to see him, and asking him to come at once to bring her home.

The dead man's sister opened the letter and wrote her the sad news of her husband's death, and that her children, now grown up, were living in Illinois. With her husband dead and her children gone, the sad-hearted woman did not care to visit her old home, but went at once to live with her children in Illinois.

A few days ago she had notice of the expected death of her father, Mr. Sam Coy—noticed in another column—and came at once to his bedside. When the funeral cortege arrived at the burying ground with the body of Mrs. Wedding's father, she rushed to the still, cold mound that marked the death-couch of her husband and covered it with flowers and tears.

DARING DASH

For Liberty of Four Desperate Prisoners in Frankfort State Prison.

Four desperate prisoners confined in the State Prison at Frankfort, made a desperate dash for liberty Wednesday morning at 6 o'clock, and as a result of it one prisoner lies dead of a bullet wound and another is dangerously wounded. The prisoners were Wallace Bishop and Thomas Mulligan, of Lexington, and Late Brooks, of Morgan county, all murderers and desperate characters, who had been wearing balls and chains for some time for bad conduct, but they had the ankle clasps filed to the breaking point so it was an easy task to unburden themselves of the balls when the moment arrived for the attempt to escape.

The prisoners went to their task as usual Wednesday morning but at 6:45 at a signal from Bishop, Mulligan and Brooks broke their shackles and rushed upon guard Frank Hurst, killed him to the floor and took his gun. Guard A. W. Gill went to Hurst's assistance but Brooks threw a gun in Gill's face and told him to throw up his hands which he did. Bishop took Gill's pistol and the prisoners with drawn weapons backed out of the guard's stand.

Gill shouted for assistance and Brooks fired at him. The shot attracted attention and Deputy Warden Madigan and Warden Lillard and his son and several deputies rushed to Gill's assistance with drawn revolvers. The revolting prisoners took a stand in a dark room and for four hours the prisoners and Warden paroled over terms of capitulation. Kan-son, a negro murderer from Louisville, had, in the meantime, joined the insurgents, and while in an exposed position Eph Lillard, Jr., took a shot at him, for what purpose we do not understand, and wounded him in the right shoulder.

The prisoners finally, upon the assurance from Warden Lillard of safe conduct to their cells, agreed to surrender which proposition the Warden accepted. While the prisoners were coming out of the room in which they had concealed themselves, Bishop dropped his arms, and when near the wall he fired the contents of a shotgun, in the hands of one of the guards, were emptied into his body, from which he died a few hours later. Again the shooting seems to have been unnecessary as the prisoners had previously surrendered their arms to the Warden.

After the killing of Bishop it was a matter of only a few moments to lock the remaining obstreperous prisoners in dungeons where they are likely to abide for a time, and the State Prison resumed its usual quiet appearance.

A FAITHFUL DOG.

Like a Loyal Sentinel Watches Over the Body of His Drunken Master.

A few nights ago we had occasion to pass through the hall of the court house here. When we entered the hall all was dark and still. Our footsteps echoed back solemn sounds of loneliness as all dark, covered passages will; but when near the center of the hall the low faint growl of a dog warned us that a human body was near. Even a dog, brute that he is, tells in his bark, growl or snarl, an intelligent story. We knew from this voiceless yet vocal growl that his master was near. We lighted a match and a familiar face lay right, expressionless and helpless before us. We were startled; here was an example of faithfulness that the gods must admire. The passerby, felt perhaps a pang of pity for the faithful wife who was waiting, longing for the home-coming of the husband and father, and hurried along, but the faithful dog, unable to comprehend the power of that liquid fire that enriches the cemeteries and populates hell, kept a patient, watchful vigil over his master. One is almost led to ask: In Eternity will the man live and the dog die?
